

Amy Lowe

Performing Arts: Music

Chicago, IL
(773) 271-5535
www.amylowe.org
loweamy@hotmail.com

Program Types

Residencies, Workshops,
Performances (Interdisciplinary) Professional Development In-Services: Teachers, Teaching
Artists

Language Proficiencies

English

Fees

Contact to inquire

Availability

Contact to inquire

Audiences

Schools (grades pre-K-5), college level, young adult, adult, at-risk, seniors, persons with disabilities,
social service groups,
hospital/Health Care Groups, ESL

Venues

Schools, libraries, parks & recreation centers, performing arts centers, community centers, senior centers, colleges & universities, festivals

Technical requirements

Contact to inquire

Counties

Clark, Lincoln, Nye

NEVADA
ARTS COUNCIL

Multi award-winning-singer, songwriter, storyteller Amy Lowe believes that when people have an opportunity to create together whether they have experience or not, they gain self-confidence and also experience interpersonal success. Music provides new ways to communicate diverse ideas. Source material for creating original songs and stories come from a variety of resources such as, literature, personal stories, oral histories, folktales; daily news, social issues, the environment and so much more. Music is a perfect vehicle to help teach people of all ages and backgrounds how to collaborate in a variety of diverse settings, from the classroom to the community.

Over the years Amy has used songwriting and storytelling to help build bridges between people, teach history, bring books to life, entertain, teach English as a second language to adults and so much more. She has written award-winning songs that have helped teachers teach math concepts to Chicago Public School age children as well as, helped the students improve their math scores.

As a Teaching Artist Amy, feels lucky to have had the opportunity to work with so many people from different socio-economic, religious and cultural backgrounds as well as, populations from the very young to the very old. These populations include: families, individuals, inner-city, suburban, rural and university, international students as well as, people with different cognitive ability.

Amy is a Teaching Artist with several arts organizations including: The Nevada Arts Council; The Illinois Arts Council; Ravinia Festival - Music Discovery Program - Reach, Teach, Play; Merit School of Music – EC Community Partners Program; Urban Gateways: Arts for Learning and, The University of The Potomac - Chicago – ESL Adjunct Faculty.

She has over 20 years' experience designing programs that integrate the arts into the curriculum. Amy has appeared in over 1000 elementary schools, high schools, community centers, festivals and universities throughout the country as a performer, workshop facilitator, and teaching artist.

Schools & Communities Workshops

Singing Stories – Oral History & Music, Literature & Music,

Early Childhood Music: moms & babies

ESL Through Music & Drama

Lively Musical program – Past to Present: senior, memory care, independent living

Professional Development Workshops

Master Classes: Teaching & Learning, Music & More

Interdisciplinary Arts Across the Curriculum: for parents, teachers & staff & ESL adult learners